Support Opportunities

For the American Headache Society’s (AHS) corporate partners, the 59th Annual Scientific Meeting presents a unique opportunity for collaboration. We recognize the significant role the contributions of our corporate partners play in ensuring the success of the Annual Scientific Meeting.

Overview
By supporting the 59th Annual Scientific Meeting, organizations will have their names associated with various activities, thereby increasing their exposure to participants. As an accredited provider of continuing medical education to physicians, the AHS strictly follows all the essentials and standards of the ACCME and AMA for commercial support. The two primary areas of corporate support available are educational and 59th Annual Scientific Meeting activities.

Educational Sessions
Educational sessions are designed to increase the education and skills required to successfully treat patients who suffer from headache disorders and underlying pain conditions. In accordance with ACCME and AMA, AHS will maintain complete control over the development, implementation, and assessment of all content, speaker selection, and slide and syllabus materials related to its programs.

Recognition of Corporate Support
Corporate support is regularly recognized in appropriate forums including, but not limited to, the specific program funded. Acknowledgements are included in all 59th Annual Scientific Meeting materials including placement of the supporter’s name prominently displayed onsite and included in the printed and electronic material; therefore, your support will be recognized wherever appropriate.
