

2019 Harold G. Wolff Lecture Award

The American Headache Society® (AHS) announces the availability of the 2019 Harold G. Wolff Lecture Award. This award is for the best paper on headache, head or face pain, or the nature of pain itself. The recipient of this award will receive $10,000 plus complimentary meeting registration and expenses for travel, hotel accommodations and meals for the 61st Annual Scientific Meeting, being held July 11 – July 14 in Philadelphia, PA. The recipient will be invited to present the paper at this meeting.

To be considered for this award, applicants must submit an abstract for consideration at the 61st Annual Scientific Meeting using the online abstract submission form by Sunday, February 3, 2019 at 11:59 pm HST.

In addition, a manuscript should be submitted to the AHS Executive Offices no later than Friday, March 1, 2019 and should be prepared in accordance with "Instructions for Authors" as published in the journal Headache. Please note that papers submitted for the Wolff Award should be sent only to the AHS Executive Offices, and not submitted to Headache via Manuscript Central. All entries become the property of Headache and may be published in the journal at the decision of the Editorial Board. The manuscript will be fast tracked for publication in a 2019 issue of Headache.

For additional information, please contact the Executive Offices of AHS at the phone number, fax number, or email address below.

American Headache Society® (AHS)
19 Mantua Road
Mount Royal, NJ 08061
856-423-0043
856-423-0082 fax
ahshq@talley.com
www.AmericanHeadacheSociety.org