

Michael J. Marmura, MD, FAHS

Michael J. Marmura, MD, is an Associate Professor of Neurology and Director of the Outpatient Program at the Jefferson Headache Center, Thomas Jefferson University. He is Board certified in Neurology through the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and certified in Headache Medicine through the United Council of Neurologic Subspecialties. He is a reviewer for several journals including Headache, Cephalgia, Current Pain and Headache Reports, Neurologist, and JAMA. Particular areas of interest include pain pharmacology, migraine, cluster headache, and hemicranias continua. He also frequently lectures on the pathogenesis, neurobiology, diagnosis, and treatment of headache.