

Rashmi B. Halker Singh, MD, FAHS

Dr. Rashmi Halker Singh is an Assistant Professor of Neurology and the current headache fellowship program director at Mayo Clinic. Within the AHS, Dr. Halker Singh serves on several committees, is the Chair of the Women's Health SIG, helped to develop a Women's Leadership Development course, was part of the 2016 class Emerging Leaders, and won an Above and Beyond Award in 2018 for her service. She has published several book chapters, patient education materials, and peer-reviewed articles on topics related to headache. She spends her time seeing patients, participating in medical student, resident, and fellow education, and headache-related research.